

A guide to

Audit

Making your business better

We believe an audit should provide a real benefit to your business, a process which improves your efficiency and effectiveness. We will explain what you should expect from an audit, communicating with you throughout the year to ensure the process is carried out smoothly and professionally.

We review your systems, processes, people and working practices and report on how these fit with your business objectives. Where we identify areas of weakness or inefficiencies, we will discuss these issues with you and make practical recommendations for improvements.

We always try to pre-empt certain issues that hinder growth: prices being incorrectly set, costs increasing, a lack of financial planning or a failure to take advantage of available tax reliefs. And if you are an established business and these issues already exist, we can ensure that plans are put in place to prevent problems reoccurring.

If your long term plan is to sell your business then we would advise you to have an audit from the start. If you would like friendly expert advice on the position of your company contact us.
